New plans will bring life back to The Standard music venue

- Permission granted for music venue, bar, supermarket and flats
- Blackhorse Lane set to become a new 'cultural hub'

Live music will return to the historic Standard music venue in Blackhorse Lane as part of a comprehensive development on the site of the old pub.

The development is part of a wider plan to bring new homes, shops and workspaces to the area.

Plans for a basement music venue, a mezzanine bar, a supermarket and 50 new residential flats have been granted provisional permission. The development will provide first-class facilities for both residents and visitors to the area.

The Standard was a hotel and pub before it became a dedicated entertainment venue in 1986. It has hosted artists including Suzi Quatro and Kula Shaker, as well as comedy stars Alan Davies, Harry Enfield and Jack Dee.

It was bought in 2011 by Turkish Food Centre and was expected to become a supermarket. The Council's Regeneration Team has been working closely with the landowners to make sure that the plans become a reality and the Standard's future as a live music venue is secured.

Cllr Simon Miller, Cabinet Member for Economic Growth and High Streets, said: "The historic Standard pub is central to our plans for the Blackhorse Lane area where we are regenerating to make a new cultural hub in Waltham Forest.

"The Council's vision for this Blackhorse Lane development is to build new homes, provide new shops, and create a welcoming environment for musicians and performers where they can perfect their craft. It will provide an important borough and London-wide cultural facility, and support the Council's ambition to make Waltham Forest the first London Borough of Culture.

"Live music venues are critical to the development of artists and we are determined to support local creatives."

The Council is also supporting

Plans for the development of Blackhorse Lane include new homes, shops and the return of the Standard live music venue the safeguarding of historic venues with the Regal cinema in Highams Park. It was recently announced that plans to restore the building and add three new arthouse cinema screens are being developed with Curzon Cinemas.

The Standard was given a facelift last year by artist Maser, organised by Wood Street Walls.

Central Parade pop-ups support new businesses

Hestia Vesta owner Selina Seesunker at her pop up shop in Walthamstow

The first of a series of new pop up shops has taken up its space in Central Parade in Walthamstow.

The space, Unit 3 of Central Parade on Hoe Street, will host pop ups by a variety of local entrepreneurs and start-ups from now until December 2017.

Interior design business Hestia Vesta is the first local business to occupy the unit. The residence was launched earlier this month in an event attended by special guest Charles Leon, President of the British Institute of Interior Design.

Hestia Vesta owner Selina Seesunker says: 'The Pop up space has been instrumental in allowing me to showcase what I can do. The Pop up Studio has given our clients an insight into how I would help them make their space extra special by going through the looks I created in store.'

'Each of these looks has been styled using products from the Adult Learning Service on Queens Road, and we are keen to work with and promote other local businesses in Waltham Forest.'

'We have had many glowing reviews which we are posting on Facebook, so it's been a great experience so far. The response to our pop up has been overwhelming so you never know, you might find us popping up somewhere else in Walthamstow.'

The Council's Business Growth team has been working closely with entrepreneurs in the borough to help them get a head start and secure business space.

No libraries decision yet

Major decisions on the relocation and refurbishment of Higham Hill, Wood Street and Lea Bridge libraries have been delayed. Cllr Ahsan Khan, who took on the post of Cabinet Member for Libraries, Arts and Culture just two months ago, would like more time to consider the responses to a Libraries consultation which ran earlier this year. The consultation covered our vision for libraries and the potential for community involvement in the future. Cllr Khan said: "It is my intention to look more closely at the consultation results before making recommendations. I can say that my position is that Higham Hill library will not be moved and this will be set out in the report due to be presented to Cabinet in October."

Markhouse Centre celebrates successful relaunch

A centre for adults with learning disabilities celebrated a successful relaunch last month.

The Markhouse Centre in Walthamstow spent Tuesday 11 July celebrating the end of an extensive refurbishment and a successful relaunch of its service offer.

The Mayor and local councillors joined the people who use the centre and their families and friends to celebrate on the day.

The centre provides activities for adults with learning disabilities to promote personal dignity, support independence, inclusion and individual rights among service users.

Cllr Angie Bean, Cabinet Member for Adult Social Care, said: "It was a real pleasure to attend the relaunch of the Markhouse Centre and see so many happy faces enjoying a great day of music, food and fun."

"The refurbishment of this facility means that adults with learning disabilities have a place where they can make new friends and take part in great confidence-boosting activities including art therapy, music making and drama sessions."

"It is vital that we support adults with learning disabilities and give them a chance to become involved in their community so that they feel comfortable, confident and secure living their lives independently."

The centre received extensive redecoration, a new roof, improved personal care facilities, improved lighting and lowered ceilings. The outside of the centre was transformed by a mural design created by Wood Street Walls.

Improved Whipps Cross Impresses Council Leaders

An £8m investment in Whipps Cross Hospital has made significant improvements, a visit to the hospital for Council Leaders has found.

Council Leader Cllr Clare Coghill said significant improvements had been made for patients and more can be expected if local people support the Love Whipps Cross campaign.

The Love Whipps Cross campaign is working to transform the hospital into a world class health and wellbeing campus.

Cllr Coghill was joined by Cllr Naheed Asghar, Cabinet Member for Health and the Voluntary Sector and Council Chief Executive Martin Esom, for a visit to the hospital on Friday 4 August to see the efforts to improve care for patients.

In the last year around £8m has been invested on a new high dependency unit, new operating theatres and a new breast screening service, developments which have made a real difference for patients.

Cllr Clare Coghill, Leader of Waltham Forest Council said: "Whipps Cross has a proud place in the borough's history and has served the community exceptionally for generations. This visit allowed me to see first-hand the skill and dedication of staff at the hospital and the impressive improvements the hospital's leadership have made in recent months. But it's clear the buildings and layout leave a lot to be desired. That's why I am encouraging everyone to sign our online pledge to demonstrate how important a redeveloped hospital is for our community.

"We and our partners have an ambition to create a state-of-the-art health and social care campus that will serve the needs of patients during and after their hospital stay. It will not only provide the highest standards of clinical care, but will focus on improving the quality of life for all our residents."

In June the Council and Barts Health NHS Trust launched the Love Whipps Cross campaign to redevelop the hospital and dramatically improve the ageing

Hep C tests to combat virus

The Council is working with partners Waltham Forest CCG, Barts Health and local voluntary organisations to raise awareness and encourage testing for Hepatitis C. The virus causes inflammation of the liver, but often doesn't have any noticeable symptoms until the liver has been significantly damaged. Dr Monica Lascar, a Consultant Physician at Barts Health NHS Trust based at Whipps Cross University Hospital, explained: "New hepatitis C drugs cure more than 80 per cent of those treated and prevent transmission to other people. Cllr Naheed Asghar, Cabinet Member for Health and the Voluntary Sector said: Hepatitis is more prevalent among people who are homeless, drug users, and those affected by HIV but anyone can get hepatitis C and HIV. Free confidential screenings are at locations across the borough.

Sir David Attenborough praises Suntrap's 50 years

Congratulations to the Staff of Suntrap and the London Borough of Waltham Forest on fifty years of inspiring children with a love of nature and a respect for the natural world.

Bob Morris

David Attenborough

from David Attenborough

Sir David Attenborough has joined in with the 50th birthday celebrations of Suntrap Forest Education Centre.

The centre received a note from the broadcaster and naturalist to congratulate them on their work teaching schoolchildren about nature and ecology over the past half a century.

The letter says "Congratulations to the staff of Suntrap and the London Borough of Waltham Forest on fifty years of inspiring children with a love of nature and a respect for the natural world. Best wishes,

David Attenborough."

2017 marks 50 years since London Borough of Waltham Forest acquired Suntrap from the Baring banking family at a cost well below market value, planning to use it for education.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy

Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "Suntrap has a unique history in the borough, and thousands upon thousands of young people have visited this wonderful spot over the last 50 years. Many people I speak to still have very fond memories of their visits and for many it was the first taste of the countryside they had ever had. To receive a letter of congratulations from such a legendary environmentalist and broadcaster is the icing on the cake."

To mark the 50th anniversary Suntrap is developing a new wildflower meadow within their grounds.

Hundreds turn out for Town Hall Open Day

Five hundred residents came along to the Waltham Forest Town Hall for its Open Day last weekend.

Groups of up to 50 residents at a time enjoyed tours of the Town Hall, learning about the building's 100 year history from tour guides including former Waltham Forest Mayor Cllr Peter Herrington.

Residents took note of small details in the design of the outside of the Town Hall, heard about Clement Attlee's address from the Town Hall steps and had a look inside at the Council Chamber.

Council officers were on hand to talk to residents about exciting plans to redevelop the Town Hall Campus. Plans include two new parks, new housing, retail and leisure space, new civic offices and outdoor space to hold markets.

The proposals will see the Town Hall site preserved, protected and enhanced for the future. The whole Town Hall Campus will be opened up to residents, creating a new community hub with a plaza around the fountain.

Visitors were welcomed to the Town Hall for its open day last weekend

Residents enjoyed free family activities, as well as tea and cake on the green outside the Town Hall in the glorious sunshine.

If you missed out on the day, don't worry. A public exhibition will be in place outside the Magistrates Court on Town Hall Campus all summer.

Sights, smells and sounds of South Asia celebrated at Mela

Residents enjoy live music at the Waltham Forest Mela

Chestnuts Field hosted 13,000 people to enjoy the sights, sounds and aromas of South Asia at the Mela last weekend.

The event included an Asian Fusion Fashion Show for the first time. Launched by Council Leader Cllr Clare Coghill, the show allowed the borough's fashion talent to showcase their collections. Resident volunteers modelled the clothes and helped out backstage.

For the first time, the England Kabaddi Team came down from Birmingham to play a friendly match at the Mela.

Attendees were able to try sports taster sessions, drumming, dancing and blockprinting workshops, fun fairs and delicious food and drinks stalls.

The event was a local affair with some of the borough's musical talent accompanying international artists' such as Grimsby born Pakistani soul singer and BBC Music Ambassador Zack Knight.

Renowned Asian artists' H-Dhami, Mumzy, Raxstar and Sahara kept things modern by mixing big beats with traditional bollywood songs.

Cllr Coghill said: "The festival shows Waltham Forest at its best with people from many different communities coming together to enjoy a variety of cultural experiences. We are incredibly proud that Waltham Forest is home to a thriving and vibrant South Asian community which makes such a positive contribution to our borough."

Sba Shaikh, Creator of Mehraj Art/Rang Mehraj, said: "The Waltham Forest Mela is about community and family. The cultural creativity of this diverse borough was championed through fashion, music, sport and art."

The Mela is part of Council's free Get Together summer events programme and has become one of the biggest South Asian festivals in East London.

Impressive results following Neighbourhood Day of Action

Neighbourhood Officers spent the day delivering penalties for environmental offences

A day of action to crack down on envirocrime in the borough saw great success last week.

Neighbourhoods Officers spent a day delivering penalties and warnings for fly-tipping, littering, incorrect licencing, underage sales and inadequate private rented housing.

In all, 50 on-the-spot fines of £80 were issued for littering, three £400 notices were issued for fly-tipping and three shops were caught selling alcohol to underage teens.

In addition, 18 notices were given to deal with pest control, 12 Waste Transfer notices were issued and nine food standards inspections were carried out resulting in one premises voluntarily shutting down because of poor hygiene levels.

The Housing Team also had a busy day – they visited 18 premises for non-compliance with our Landlord Licensing Scheme. Owners found to be in breach could face civil penalties of up to £30,000. Three unlicensed Houses in Multiple Occupation were identified and seven properties were identified in poor condition, which will be subject to further enforcement. A landlord was charged for the clearing of this dirty front garden and another 20 were reported to the Neighbourhoods Team.

Councillor Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader of the Council and Cabinet Member for Environment, said:

"We work tirelessly to keep the borough clean and safe.

"On days like this we crack down on everything from food standards to littering. From landlords who keep their properties in disrepair to checking shops aren't making underage sales.

"The message is quite clear; we want Waltham Forest to be a great place to live and for everyone to have a quality life. Those residents and businesses that jeopardise our ambition face penalties, closure and even the courts."

In brief

£1000 fine for underage sale

Chingford supermarket owner Mr Tarik Korkmaz was ordered to pay a total of more than £1000 in fines and costs after illegally selling alcohol to a person under the age of 18. Following an exercise carried out by Waltham Forest Trading Standard to deter the sale of alcohol and anti-social behaviour within the borough, a sixteen year old child was sold a bottle of 'WKD Original Blue' at Best Supermarket in Chingford Road. Mr Tarik Korkmaz pleaded guilty to the charge at Thames Magistrates Court on Friday 14 July. Councillor Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader of the Council and Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "The message is quite clear; we will not tolerate underage sales of drink or cigarettes. If shop worker or manager is unsure of a customer's age they need to ask for ID."

More time for The Mall

We want everyone to have a chance to voice their opinion on plans for the Mall in Walthamstow town centre, so we have extended the consultation period. It will now remain open until otherwise advised in Waltham Forest News and the Council's website. The plans for The Mall include new housing, more space for retail and leisure which is estimated to create 500 jobs, a new community garden with seating and play areas for a wide range of ages and a new Town Square.

Bring your spade, trowel and enthusiasm for the borough's first Big Bulb Weekend

The first ever Big Bulb Weekend will take place from Friday 27 October until Sunday 29 October.

We want the community to come together and plant bulbs, provided free of charge by the Council, in your local area. Bulbs are one of the easiest and most rewarding garden plants to grow, and we are offering the chance to get together to plant up areas that will help beautify the borough.

Not only will we provide bulbs, but also litter pickers and litter bags. All you need to do is bring a spade or trowel and your enthusiasm!

The Council wants to support as many bulb planting projects as possible so why not organise your own Big Bulb Weekend event. Let us know the time, day, location and number of volunteers taking part and we will supply the bulbs!

Once arranged, you can promote your event on Twitter and Facebook with the #WFbigbulbweekend.

There's still time to have your say

A resident gets involved at the coffee and conversation roadshow

The Council's Coffee and Conversation roadshow has been out and about around Waltham Forest over the past month to find out from residents what they would like from their borough and how the Council can help make it happen.

There's still plenty of time to get involved and have your say this summer – our roadshow will be at Leytonstone Streetfest on Sunday 3 September or you can still complete the survey online.

Cllr Clare Coghill, Council Leader, has been accompanying our roadshow, meeting residents and learning more about what matters to Waltham Forest as a place to live and work.

“Along with the opportunities this creates there are some challenges to overcome, including increased traffic levels and higher house prices. The Council has taken steps to address these where possible – but there is much more to do and less money to work with than ever before.

“Please get involved and make your voice heard, either at one of our Coffee and Conversation roadshow events or by taking part online at www.walthamforest.gov.uk/conversation. However you choose to take part, your view matters and is important to help us improve the

them in their neighbourhoods over a cup of coffee supplied by local company Perky Blenders.

Almost 1000 residents have already had their say on Cllr Coghill's priorities: to keep the borough clean and safe, to work to ensure everyone has a decent roof over their head and to improve our residents' life chances.

Cllr Clare Coghill said: “It's a time of great change across Waltham Forest. We're welcoming new businesses and residents on a daily basis as more and more people see quality of life for everyone in the borough.”

You can stop by to see the Coffee and Conversation roadshow at the Leytonstone StreetFest on 3 September at the Church Lane area of the town centre and have your say over a cup of coffee – or even tea, if that's more your thing.

Q&A with a Housing Officer

We asked our social media followers what they would like to know about housing in the borough. We got a Housing Officer to answer some, and we'll feature more in the next Waltham Forest News.

What is the Council doing to combat homelessness in the borough?

We work in many ways to prevent homelessness and help homeless people. We improve life opportunities by looking at employment and training and look at relocation and housing possibilities in the private and public housing sector. To support us, we work with external partners like St Mungo's, who have created the St Mungo's Hub on Forest Road which supports street homeless people find accommodation. This is just scratching the surface of our work, to read our current Homelessness Prevention Strategy, visit: www.walthamforest.gov.uk/content/housing-policies-and-guidance

What do you do if you suspect that a house on your road is a House in Multiple Occupation?

Check the Public Registers on the Council website to see if the property is licensed. If it is not on there, contact the Private Rented Property Licensing team at propertylicensing@walthamforest.gov.uk. They will carry out further investigation and if necessary, inspect and prosecute.

Is the Council building new council houses?

To make sure we have enough council properties, the Council has committed to building more than 500 council homes for rent over the next few years. We also plan to redevelop council-owned sites to deliver 2,000 new council homes over the next five years. You can find out about new council homebuilding developments at: <https://www.walthamforest.gov.uk/node/1314>

Do any housing blocks in the borough have the same cladding as Grenfell Tower?

We were able to confirm that none of our council properties have the same type of cladding as was involved in the disaster at Grenfell Tower shortly after the fire. We have been in contact with our residents in high rise housing blocks since the tragic incident to let them know our fire safety arrangements and to give fire safety advice.

When will housing for those on a lower income become a priority?

The Council really cares about making sure people on a lower income have access to housing. We make sure that our developments include a proportion of affordable homes, and offer shared ownership schemes, rent to save and help to buy schemes. To find out more, visit: www.walthamforest.gov.uk/content/affordable-home-ownership

Is the Council planning to take Community Led Housing further in the Borough?

We recently consulted with residents on Community Led Housing (housing provided by the community). We are still working through the responses and will be using the findings to guide our approach in future. We will also be holding a seminar event on Community Led Housing later in the year.

Get a Better Boiler

A 'Better Boilers' scheme is helping vulnerable Londoners to prepare for the winter. Replacements and repairs for inefficient and broken boilers will be given free to owner occupied households who receive qualifying benefits. Better Boilers has already helped hundreds of Londoners to reduce their energy bill by an average of around £150. They also reap other benefits such as a reduced risk of carbon monoxide poisoning and improved local air quality.

The scheme is open to new applications until Thursday 31 August, or until all remaining funds are allocated. Get your application in soon to avoid missing out.

First Chingford Market a hit

The new Saturday Market in Chingford saw nearly 20 stalls selling art, crafts, organic fruit and veg, artisan bread and coffee. Shoppers were treated to live music too. Councillor Simon Miller, Lead for Economic Growth and High Streets said; "Street trading is important to our cultural life and we will continue to invest in our markets and the opportunities they provide for our business and communities. "This is part of our regeneration work and we are always looking at initiatives to raise the quality of life and opportunity across the borough." The next market is scheduled for Saturday 26 August.

Breastfeeding best for babies

The benefits of breastfeeding were highlighted for Breastfeeding Week earlier this month. From 1 to 7 August 2017 events took place in line with this year's theme of 'Sustaining Breastfeeding Together', including a stall at the Mela. It was also announced that the Council has started the Baby Friendly Initiative accreditation process. Whipps Cross maternity department already achieved stage 1 UNICEF baby friendly status earlier this year. Cllr Naheed Asghar, Lead Member for Health and the Voluntary Sector, said: "Supporting breastfeeding is everybody's responsibility and the Council recognises that breastfeeding can only be successful with the right support in place."

Overground to extend

An extension to the Gospel Oak to Barking London Overground line, which passes through Walthamstow Queens Road station, has been given the green light by the Government. Construction on the new line, which will extend 4.5 kilometres into Barking Riverside, will begin in summer 2018. Train services will commence in late 2021. The extension is an important part of the Mayor's Transport Strategy, which plans to create a fairer, greener, healthier and more prosperous city by improving public transport and encouraging active travel. Sadiq Khan, Mayor of London, said: "This is wonderful news for east London. The extension of the Overground will ensure residents have the high-quality transport links they need."

Nominate your Waltham Forest Cultural Star

Waltham Forest is brimming with heritage sites, green space and historic buildings, but it is our communities which make the borough such a brilliant showcase of London culture.

In Waltham Forest, we are not just spectators; we are participants, innovators, instigators and creators. Culture is embedded across our borough – in shops, restaurants, libraries, workshops for the young and old, nurseries and schools, and in the many communities we are proud to call our own. Culture is thriving on every corner in the borough because of the people living, studying and working here.

As part of our bid to be London's first Borough of Culture, we are asking you to nominate a Cultural Star. Tell us about the people who you think have made a difference to culture in the borough. They can be painters, performers, musicians, street artists, jewellers, film makers, chefs, hairdressers, nail artists, authors or dancers – anyone involved in any aspect of art, creativity and culture in our borough.

We are looking for the unsung heroes of culture who have gone above and beyond to enrich people's lives with culture. Your

Residents are encouraged to nominate their Cultural Star

Cultural Star might be the teacher of your child's ballet class, the chef at your favourite restaurant or a stall holder in Coronation Gardens Saturday Market.

Please send your nominations to wfculture@walthamforest.gov.uk with a brief explanation of why you think they are a Cultural Star.

Those nominated and found to be making a real difference will get an opportunity to meet other Cultural Stars at a special afternoon tea at the William Morris Gallery in the autumn. They will also be invited to play a key role in supporting our campaign to be chosen as the first London Borough of Culture.

What do you love about Waltham Forest?

Perhaps it is Vestry House Museum, God's Own Junk Yard, the Leytonstone Arts Trail or The View in Chingford. Or it might be a community group like a school choir, youth drama group or restaurant.

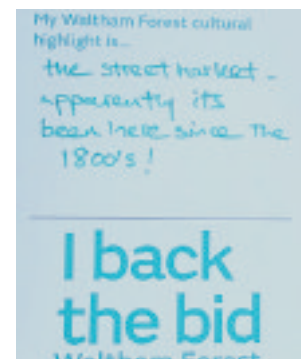

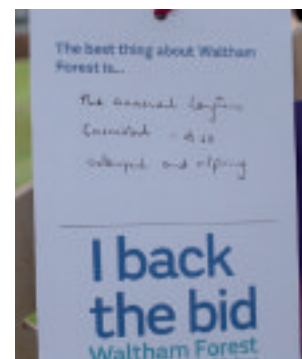

Whatever you love about culture in our borough, we're sure you will want it to be part of the bid for Waltham Forest to become the first London Borough of Culture. Throughout August, we're asking you to nominate your Waltham Forest cultural highlight. Send in your suggestions on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram @WFCulture19 or e-mail wfculture@walthamforest.gov.uk

We'll use your suggestions to prove that Waltham Forest should be London's first Borough of Culture.

Helping your family have fun this summer

■ Free events and activities organised for young people of all ages

■ Why not learn a new skill or try a new sport?

A youngster enjoys a fairground ride at the Mela

If you're scratching your head wondering how you can keep the kids entertained during the summer holidays, worry no more – because there's loads going on as part of Waltham Forest's Holiday Activity Programme.

Free exciting activities are set to take place across the borough which you can either enjoy with your family or which promise to let you put your feet up at home while your teenager gets out and about.

Between Monday 24 July and Friday 25 August, the Council has organised a whole host of dance, sport and art workshops, as well as things like circus sessions and acting and performance masterclasses.

Family fun sessions for five to 11 year olds will provide opportunities for children and young people to try new things and learn new skills, whilst having fun and making new friends.

Events include a special Lion King Workshop, which will see a member of the West End Show Lion King teach songs and dances from the show alongside Lion King themed games and arts and crafts activities. Sessions will also feature balloon science, face painting, animals and a children's disco.

If your child is a bit older, a range of activities have been organised for young people aged 11 to 19. They include water sports and mountain biking activities, street dance sessions, a comic book masterclass – and even an opportunity to try your hand at angling.

Booking on the 11-19 programme is essential so parents are advised to book early to avoid disappointment.

Lea Bridge Station on track to success

The first train arrives at Lea Bridge Station as it reopens after 31 years

- 15 months after reopening to the public, Lea Bridge Station is a resounding success
- Services per hour set to double by the end of the year

It's been 15 months since our campaign to reopen Lea Bridge Station was successful and the station came back into operation. Now, over a year on, our figures show that the station has exceeded all initial expectations.

When the station was opened, we expected 352,000 journeys to be made in the first year. That target has been smashed, with 532,000 journeys taken after just 12 months of operation. We also estimated that approximately 900 people a day would use the station as part of their journey. Figures show that in reality almost 1,500 commuters use the station on a daily basis. That means 3,500 more journeys happen a week than we originally thought and this number continues to grow.

Cllr Simon Miller, Cabinet Member for Economic Growth and High Streets, says "After injecting £12million to kick-start our regeneration and growth plans in the Lea Bridge area, I'm thrilled to learn that the station is having such a positive impact and the number of passengers has well exceeded our expectations."

"The line provides a direct link to Stratford and Tottenham Hale, and this station gives passengers journey times as short as five minutes. This number has been achieved with just two trains an hour, so with the future planned four trains an hour and the increase in new homes in the area we should expect even greater numbers!"

What does it mean for local residents and commuters?

- Better access to Stratford and Tottenham Hale, as well as Lee Valley Regional Park and Leyton
- Shorter journey times, a journey that takes 40 minutes on the bus takes five minutes on the train
- Kick starts plans to reinvigorate this area with new homes, new community and health facilities and new shops and business space
- The demand from commuters means Network Rail will double the services per hour by the end of the year so they run every 15 minutes

Commuters will now be able to grab a coffee from mobile espresso bar, Rattle and Rowe Coffee, which will be serving hot coffee every weekday morning outside the station.

Mat Ruttie, a Walthamstow resident who set up the company with Grace Rowe said: 'This is my second week here and already I am seeing customer numbers increase. I am looking forward to the increase in train services – more customers – and what the Council is doing to improve the area'.

Walk in the Park

There is still plenty of time to enjoy a free Walk in the Park as Lee Valley Regional Park Authority continues to mark its 50th anniversary this summer with a series of guided walks. The leisurely ambles enable visitors to explore and enjoy the vibrant green, open spaces found across the regional park which spans London, Essex and Hertfordshire. The walks take place on weekends throughout the coming months and are open to all ages.

CentrE17 now open

Waltham Forest's newest permanent arts and theatre space is now open. The 120-seater venue sits within Central Parade on Hoe Street, and provides affordable rehearsal, art and performance space. The space is managed by The CentrE17, a Community Interest Company set up by professional theatre-makers living in Walthamstow. They are working in partnership with the Council to build an inclusive and diverse cultural and educational programme, recruit volunteers and reach out to local young people. The CentrE17 will host regular theatre and dance performances, wellbeing classes, and workshops in addition to themed events like cookery showcases, comedy extravaganzas, and children's theatre.

Heritage board for Chingford

A new noticeboard has been installed in Chingford Green to celebrate the heritage of the area. The board replaces an old board which was weathered and could no longer be easily read. Chingford Green residents will now be able to read about their ward's history on a brand new board. Ward councillors Roy Berg, Caroline Erics and Peter Herrington turned out to the board's grand opening this month, along with Cllr Simon Miller, Cabinet Member for Economic Growth and High Streets. The unveiling was particularly exciting for Cllr Berg, as the board features a shop once owned by his family.
